

The Downtown Writer's Center of the YMCA of Greater Syracuse & Onondaga Community College
present an evening with

Charles Simic

Poet Laureate of the United States

Friday, October 3rd, 2008 7:00 p.m.
at OCC's Storer Auditorium

TICKETS

$15 for YMCA/DWC members (on sale January 1st, 2008)
$20 for non-members (on sale March 1st, 2008)

To order, contact the DWC at (315) 474-6851 x328.

The YMCA's
Downtown Writer's Center

The Arts Branch of the YMCA
www.ymcaarts.org

CHARLES SIMIC was born in Yugoslavia on May 9, 1938. He is the author of 18 books of poetry, including the new collection That Little Something and The World Doesn't End, winner of the Pulitzer Prize. He is also an acclaimed essayist, translator, and editor. His many awards and honors include fellowships from the NEA, the MacArthur Foundation, and the Wallace Stevens Award from the Academy of American Poets for "outstanding and proven mastery in the art of poetry."

Onondaga Community College
presents

arts across campus