Art Exhibit:
Reflections: Paintings by Spencer Stultz
Throughout February
Reflections is an exhibition composed of Spencer Stultz’s recent work. It takes a soft, whimsical gaze into her past as she reflects on childhood memories and experiences. She depicts scenes from her current reality, which are relatively foggy, and simplistic in nature. Her projections of what the future will hold are hopeful and ambitious, as she visually creates the future that she hopes to see. She depicts her future as bright and bold. Spencer recreates her life, and the various ways that she chooses to remain fully present in it.

Spencer Stultz is a visual artist that was born and raised in Columbus, OH. She is a self-taught artist that has been creating since she was a small child. She originally began pursuing a degree in Political Science during her undergraduate studies, however after spending four months in France and traveling Europe she decided to pursue her passions and focus on her artistry. Her art mainly includes portraiture, where she interrogates her experiences and the larger trends that they speak to. She has previously showcased her art in Central New York, where she has developed a growing audience.
